Keyot can help your organization align your business goals with how work gets done. Starting with a thorough assessment, Keyot will seek to understand your organizational goals before embarking on an Agile Transformation. Once we understand your goals, we will customize an approach for your organization, keeping your specific needs and challenges in mind.

With goals identified, Keyot prefers to start small, targeting one part of your organization to adopt change and recognize improvement.

Keyot's Agile practice can help you transform with on-site consulting services - we often recommend a combination of Just-In-Time Training and Agile Coaching to teach proven practices while reinforcing the changes.

When Scrum teams are formed without addressing the process for how teams receive work, there can be negative side effects - a common one being the creation of mini-waterfalls. Our Agile practice can help prevent those types of mistakes by answering important preliminary questions: What is the most effective way to get work done within your organization? Is Scrum right for your teams or is Kanban better for what you're trying to accomplish? What is the best way to transition from waterfall to a more Agile approach?

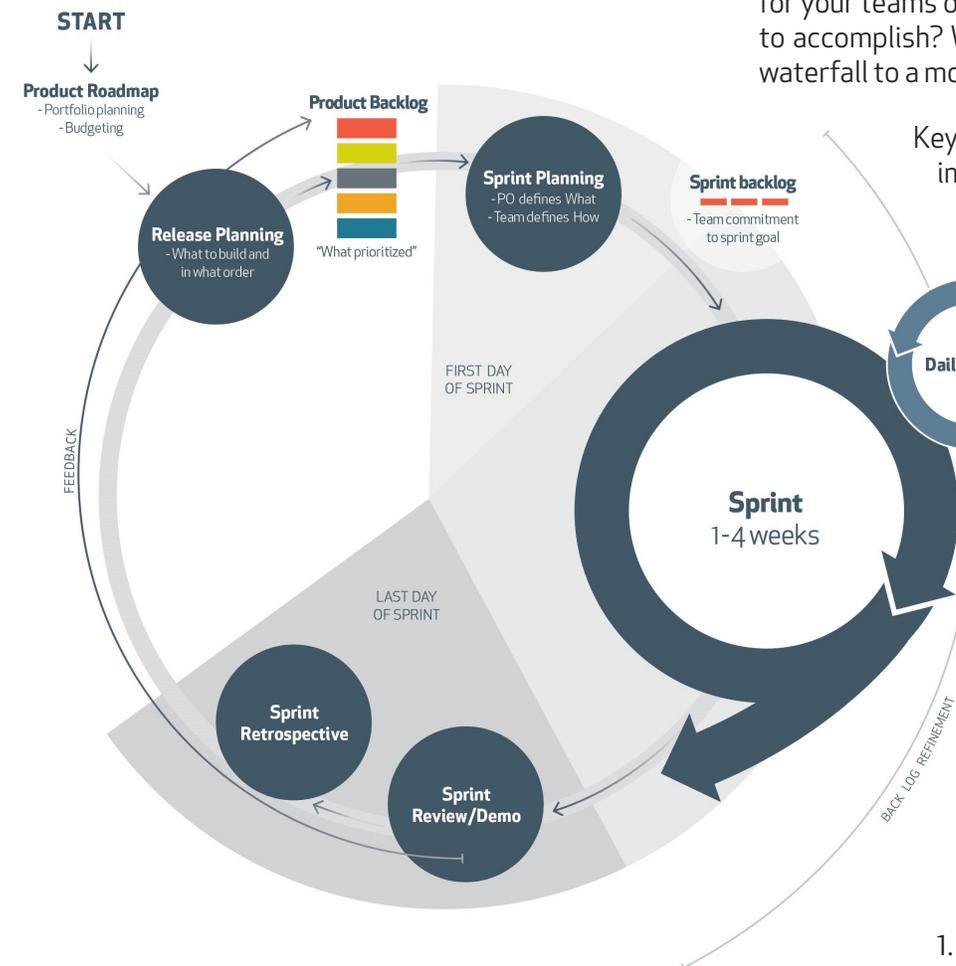

Keyot has proven leaders who have implemented feature-driven Scrum and Kanban teams to complete products faster. Adopting an Agile philosophy for responding to change and the needs of the customer, paired with Scrum or Kanban, is effective when implemented well. Keyot's coaches and Just-In-Time Training will make the difference.

Do you have effectively-managed portfolios? Are your products clearly identified and do they have roadmaps for growth? Does your organization utilize a value stream and align it with your Product Backlog? These are all good questions that can dramatically impact the performance of an organization, but only if you know how to utilize them effectively.
